THE MARKET IS MOVING. THE TOOLS ARE NOT.

By supporting the improvement of employees' health and wellness directly, businesses are able to be more productive,, less absent, and longer-tenured. The economics are settled. The delivery is not.

CASE A DEMAND VALIDATED

Hedgeweek · July 2025

Citadel hires its first Chief Medical Officer.

Ken Griffin appoints Dr David Stark (ex-Morgan Stanley, Harvard-trained pediatric neurologist) to drive peak performance across the firm. A signal the $5.7 trillion hedge fund industry treats employee health as alpha.

CASE B SUPPLY BROKEN

Healthcare Innovation · Fitbit corporate study

The wearable gap. £1,000 saved, then abandoned.

Enrolled employees saved an average £1,000 per year in healthcare costs but 40% dropped off by month three. Fitbit corporate sales have declined every year since 2018. The demand is there. The hardware is not the answer.

Global corporate wellness market: $53 bn · mostly unloved

No daily, private, hardware-free check-in for a whole team. Until now.
